Eighteenth Annual Faculty Institute

June 14-17, 2018

The Reacting Consortium announces its 18th Annual Institute at Barnard College. Join the over 200 professors and administrators from throughout the world who, over four days, gather and immerse themselves in this "highest" of high-impact pedagogies. This year the Institute offers intensive workshops on twelve different games, as well as plenary and concurrent sessions that explore issues related to teaching and learning, faculty development, and the future of higher education more generally. Please refer to the left hand column links for more information about the conference.

Overview

The institute program features the following two cycles of game workshops. Participants should register for one game on Thursday-Friday and a second game on Saturday-Sunday. The program also includes a series of concurrent sessions where participants engage in discussions about the RTTP pedagogy, game management, and undergraduate education more generally. All games are described below.

Thursday/Friday Games:

- The Threshold of Democracy: Athens in 403 BCE*
- Confucianism and the Succession Crisis of the Wanli Emperor, 1587*
- Forest Diplomacy: War and Peace on the Colonial Frontier, 1756-57
- The Constitutional Convention of 1787: Constructing the American Republic
- Modernism vs. Traditionalism: Art in Paris 1888-1889
- Machiavelli and the Florentine Republic, 1494-1512

Saturday/Sunday Games:

- Rousseau, Burke, and Revolution in France, 1791*
- Greenwich Village, 1913: Suffrage, Labor and the New Woman*
- Red Clay 1835: Cherokee Removal and the Meaning of Sovereignty
- Climate Change in Copenhagen, 2009
- Guerrilla Girls in Our Midst: 1984-1987
- Il Duomo di Santa Maria del Fiore: Florence, 1418 (<http://reacting.barnard.edu/duomo>)

games recommended for newcomers to RTTP*

Concurrent Sessions 2018

Click here to submit a proposal. (<https://reacting.barnard.edu/ai-2018-cfp>)

DEADLINE: MARCH 31, 2018

The Annual Institute program includes a series of standing sessions sponsored by the Reacting Consortium Board. Topics to be addressed at the 2018 institute include:

- The Classroom Experience: RTTP According to Students*
- The Art of Teaching in the RTTP Classroom: A Roundtable Discussion*
- Using RTTP in Writing and Speaking Courses*
- The Path to Publication

* Recommended for participants new to RTTP

 Recommended for experienced RTTP instructors only

We also invite individual faculty and/or teams to share their experiences with RTTP at the institute by submitting a concurrent session proposal. We encourage proposals that reflect the variety of ways individual instructors or programs are using/tailoring RTTP games to achieve specific outcomes for their institutions, to engage faculty, to rejuvenate teaching and learning, or to develop/revise new curricular programs in a variety of disciplines.

(Please note: All session facilitators at the institute will be responsible for the appropriate registration fees, travel, and lodging expenses.)

Session Formats

Concurrent sessions will be roughly 85 minutes in length and will likely have an audience ranging from 20 to 40 participants. There is no set format for these sessions: they might consist of a hands-on workshop, video presentation, individual presentations, a discussion panel, or a roundtable involving participants' questions. We encourage collaborative proposals among faculty from multiple institutions, but individual faculty or administrators are also encouraged to submit proposals so that we may group them into sessions around a common theme. Interested individuals might also solicit co-presenters by posting a comment on the RTTP Facebook Faculty Lounge (<https://www.facebook.com/groups/2205026573/>).

Proposal Guidelines

Proposals should indicate the intended session format and focus on broad issues related to student learning, teaching, faculty development, or curriculum development and RTTP. The following is a list of topics of interest that have arisen from recent discussions in the RTTP Facebook Faculty Lounge and elsewhere. Ideas may certainly be presented which are not included on this list:

- Reacting in First Year Seminars
- Assessing Reacting to the Past
- RTTP for STEM classes, STEM faculty for RTTP classes
- Reacting in international/language learning courses
- Guidelines and hazards of portraying character of different sexes, races, abilities, etc.

For further ideas on relevant topics, proposers may wish to review the concurrent session information from the 2017 (<https://reacting.barnard.edu/ai-2017-cfp>), 2016 (<https://reacting.barnard.edu/2016-institute-concurrent-session-call>), 2015 (<http://reacting.barnard.edu/2015-institute-concurrent-sessions>), 2014 (<https://reacting.barnard.edu/2014-institute-concurrent-sessions>), 2013 (<http://reacting.barnard.edu/2013-institute-concurrent-sessions>), 2012 (<http://reacting.barnard.edu/2012-institute-concurrent-sessions>) and 2011 (<http://reacting.barnard.edu/headlines/2011-annual-institute-concurrent-sessions>) institutes.

Submission Instructions

Proposals should be submitted using the form link below by March 31, 2017. Applicants who submit proposals by the March 31 deadline will be notified of the status of their proposal(s) in mid-April. Any proposals received after the deadline will be considered on a rolling basis, space permitting.

Participants who are selected for presentations should be prepared to submit written summaries or informal discussions of the results of their panels or roundtables to Roll Call, the RTTP ejournal, as a part of the conference process.
